BIOGRAPHY

Ms. Gerri Woods is a U.S. Navy Veteran with over 30 years of Program/Construction Management and serves as the Executive Vice President of Rohadfox Construction Control Services Corporation (Rohadfox). She oversees company operations, business development, and client services. Rohadfox is an Atlanta-based and female-owned engineering and construction management firm. It is one of the oldest minority Construction and Program Management firms in the United States, catering to water/wastewater facilities, aviation, rail and transit systems, roads and highways, and the federal government.

In her nine years at Rohadfox, Gerri has been intimately involved with client relations for Rohadfox's 11.4B ATLNext Program at Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International Airport. Gerri is a pivotal executive leadership team member and has contributed to the company's growth by building teams, developing capabilities, and generating new business.

Before joining Rohadfox in 2014, Gerri was the president and owner of a consulting management and staffing firm that focused on government agencies, small to medium size businesses, and finding job placement for military veterans. In addition, she served as vice president and business manager for MHR International—a management consulting firm specializing in program and construction management, strategic business consulting, and diversity and inclusion initiatives.

Gerri holds a Bachelor of Science in Human Resource Management from Troy State University and completed a Project Management Leadership Program at Georgia Institute of Technology.

Gerri serves on the Advisory Board serving Alabama, Georgia, and Mississippi for the National Kidney Foundation.
